Advanced Security Technologies Chooses Honeywell

You need a clear vision to succeed in this industry. Just under three years ago, Bob Ricucci started Advanced Security Technologies (AST) with a mission to build a truly exceptional business - from scratch. Bob knew that a strong relationship with an industry leader would help him build his company, and that's why from day one - he selected Honeywell as his partner of choice. Bob offers his customers Honeywell's broad range of quality products and solutions, and can always count on outstanding technical and sales support. As a dealer and integrator who can do it all, AST has grown at a remarkable rate in a very short time - providing security for an ever-growing number of businesses in California.
